Foreword

The NYC Healthy Relationship Training Academy is an initiative of the NYC Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence (OCDV).

The New York City Resource Guide for Teenage Victims of Family Domestic Violence & Dating Violence serves as a reference for parents, teachers, caregivers, and anyone else who may work closely with teenage victims of domestic and/or dating violence. While many organizations provide services to victims of domestic violence, we find it helpful to prune the OCDV's larger and more comprehensive Resource Directory into a more focused and specialized directory of organizations providing services specifically targeting teenagers and youth. We have also made the guide's interface more user-friendly so that you as the confidant of a teenage victim will feel prepared to make referrals appropriate to the situation at hand.

The organizations listed in this guide have been vetted within the past year to ensure that listed programmatic and contact information are current. We selected organizations that are prepared to specifically address the needs of teenage clientele. Furthermore, we only included organizations that provide acute services for teenage victims of domestic and dating violence, such as short-term housing, emergency health, counseling, and emergency legal services. Such streamlining should improve your ability to address the young victim's most immediate and pressing needs.

The NYC Family Justice Centers of Brooklyn, the Bronx, and Queens are one-stop shops that can meet many if not all the immediate needs of a victim of domestic and/or dating violence. These centers enable victims to meet with a prosecutor, speak with a licensed counselor, and apply for housing and financial assistance in only one visit. Services are provided in any language the client is most comfortable with and children are safely monitored in adjacent rooms.

If you are looking for organizations that provide preventive, long-term, or ongoing services for victims of domestic and/or dating violence, please visit the OCDV's Resource Directory online at:

nyc.gov/domesticviolence/ResourceDirectory

For ancillary services not directly related to domestic violence such as literacy and employment services, please call the city's information line: 311.

If you would like your organization to be added to this guide, please email the Academy at:

OCDVAcademy@cityhall.nyc.gov

We hope you find this guide helpful in your work with teenagers. Of course, one can only hope that those under one's care never find themselves victims of any form of violence, let alone domestic and dating violence. But should such an unfortunate event arise, we trust the information in this directory will prove useful and improve the safety and health of teenage victims of domestic and/or dating violence who seek your help.
